

Dicentra cucullaria

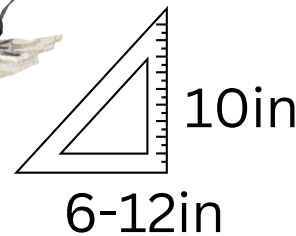

Dutchman's Breeches

Spring ephemeral native to moist woodland areas in the Mid-Atlantic. This plant prefers to live under deciduous trees in moist rich humusy soils with good drainage.

Wildlife Value: Important early food source for native bumble bees

DEER RESISTANT, TOXIC

Did you know?

The common name comes from the fact the flowers look a little like old-fashioned knickers hanging upside down on a laundry line!